

Capturing THE Romance OF Rarotonga

A destination wedding is a great reason to get a wedding video - and if that destination is Rarotonga, then Tiare Films are the people to talk to.

"We've created DVD packages and a filming style especially for island weddings," explains Justine, Tiare Films director.

In the islands weddings are usually held outdoors, near the sea - often at sunrise or sunset - locations that family handycams are not designed for.

"Trade winds and the sound of waves breaking on the reef make it difficult to record vows, and lighting conditions are pretty extreme. This is where our professional cameras and microphones make all the difference."

"We also film the live performances that are a popular part of island celebrations - such as string bands and Cook Islands dancing and drumming."

Arriving IN style AND ON time

Getting to your chosen venue is as important as actually being there.

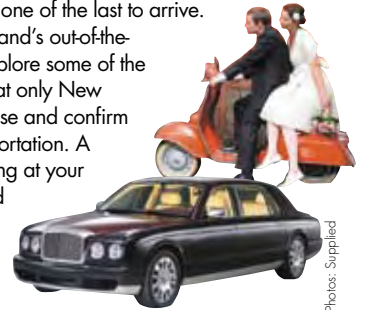

Wedding transport not only serves a functional purpose but is the perfect opportunity for you to make a noticeable arrival and departure from the event.

The choices are endless when it comes to transportation. You can even have your transportation match your wedding theme. Vintage and classic cars ooze elegance and style, a horse-drawn carriage says tradition and romance. A helicopter suggests a measure of decadence and stretch limousines scream glamour and star quality.

Hiring a professional driver(s) helps to ensure things run smoothly and provides for a stress-free day (well, maybe a less stressful day).

If you are providing your guests with transportation, the simple solution is to charter a bus. You will need to arrange with your guests to be at a certain location (at least an hour ahead of time) for easy pick-up and drop-off. A Chartered Bus will limit the number of guests who are late. Remember, the bride should always be one of the last to arrive.

If you have chosen one of New Zealand's out-of-the-way venues, search the internet and explore some of the varied ways of getting to those spots that only New Zealand is famous for. You should choose and confirm your venue before arranging the transportation. A helicopter may not be capable of landing at your gorgeous central city church venue, and you may have some difficulty getting a horse-drawn carriage to deliver you to a remote hill-top location.

Capture the moment

ONE FINAL TURN in the mirror, admiring glances as you walk down the aisle, vows spoken soft and true. A professional wedding video is the best way to capture a day to remember.

"As the bride, I saw so much in the video that I never saw that day. You captured everything I remembered, and all that I had missed."
